The Cart before the Horse.

BY AN IRISHMAN.
Oh, for some deep sorrowed dell,
Where brick and mortar life may dwell;
To sit down in a pot of groats,
No—no—I mean a groat of peace.
I'd choose a home by Erin's wave,
With not a sound to mar life's lot,
Tid by the cannon have a shot—
No—by the Shanass have a pot.
How fair that rocky lake around,
That wide expanse to scan it o'er,
I love a shiver with a roar—
I mean a river by the shore.
Romantic Erin's sea girl land,
How sweet with one you love the most,
To watch the cocks upon the roost,
To wander forth where few frequent,
To come upon a tipsy quest,
No—no—I mean a gilly test.

In that retirement, love, I would
Pursue some rustic industry,
And make myself a boiling tea—
No—no—I mean a tallow bee.
Beneath a shady aspenome,
How sweet to breathe love's tender vow,
Your dear one bites by a row—
No—I mean sitting by a bough.
O'ercome with your food, with to sit,
Outside your door at daylight's close,
While she's hard hitting at your nose—
I mean hard knitting at your hose.
Perhaps on early dawns you brood,
While sympathy her sweet face shows;
This good to walk upon one's toes—
I mean to talk upon one's woes.

Ah! still you watch that fairy shape,
A summer dress which does adorn,
Admiring much her lank and spare—
No—no—I mean her soft brown hair.

SOFT soap, in some shape, please as all; and generally speaking, the more lye you put into it the better.

To catch mice—on going to bed
put crumbs in your mouth and lie with it open, and when a mouse's whiskers tickle your throat—bite.

THE New York Times remarks that if every one in that city who got drunk New Year's day will resolve to drink no more during the year, that will be a very sober city.

A MAN named Jameson, wishing to curtail household expenses, adopted a novel mode, to effect his object. He kissed the servant girl one morning, when he knew Mrs.
J. would see him. Result, discharge of servant girl and $12 per month saved.

"Greatly Blessed."

Sometimes sarcasm will keep two "poor little literature," and we are not sure but that there are absurdities in society, politics, and even in religion, that can best be exposed by judicious ridicule; and so evidently thought the writer of an article under the above caption, in yesterday's Telegraph, which, if not intended as a direct thrust at the great social evil of Utah society, certainly looks very much like making game of it, and which, considering the source from which it emanated, is decidedly rich. If space allowed, we would adopt the article entire, and have no doubt that our readers would consider it a real home stab against Polygamy. As it is, we can spare room for only one or two selections. The article opens as follows:

The people of Utah are a highly favored people. They are greatly blessed in regard to their social condition, far beyond the people of any other portion of this extensive country. In other Territories and States, a woman is prevented by local laws and by public sentiment from being married to the man whom she would prefer, if he has already a wife. Many women are thereby compelled, if they are married at all, to become united to men for whom they have no special affection, and in communities where the women preponderate, which are not few, some are altogether prevented from marrying, in consequence of these unscrupulous and unreasonable sentiments and laws. Woman is thus deprived of the greatest of her heaven-ordained rights and shut out from the enjoyment of her greatest heaven-ordained privileges.

The above needs little comment. The point where the laugh comes in can be seen at once. It is quite evident, of course, that, in Polygamy, women always marry those for whom they have a "special affection." Young ladies of sixteen are so apt to fall in love with round-shouldered, waxen-faced, dirt-begrimed old men of sixty and upwards! And then how very attractive some of these old fellows are! What a lot of women had a "special affection" for Heber and Brigham for instance, and what a terrible fate would have been theirs if they had not been allowed to marry their "affinities." In that case, you see, they would have been "deprived of the greatest of their heaven-ordained rights, and shut out from the enjoyment of their greatest heaven-ordained privileges!"

Again: The women of Utah thank their stars that the blighting restrictions of a large portion of modern society are not in consequence with the liberal public sentiment of the community here, but on the contrary that a woman, to fulfill the great commandment and work out the natural purpose of her creation, is not obliged to ally herself to some filthy man who violates the laws of social purity with impunity, because, all the decent men have their respective complement of one help-mate each already made up!

O no, certainly not! No woman in Utah is "obliged to ally herself to some filthy man who violates the laws of social purity with impunity." Marriage is a free institution among the "Saints," and no young woman is ever forced into polygamy, of course not! If twenty women have a "special affection" for some greasy old Bishop, they are "allowed" to "marry" him; and hence are not "forced" to become prostitutes! O what an excellent system! What a liberal minded people! Why, the very gods are enthroned on the Wasatch, and the river of Life flows through City Creek Cañon, and Brigham Young owns the franchise. But again:

As may be naturally expected, under such a beneficent order of things the women of Utah rejoice in the fact that they enjoy greater social privileges, purity, peace, and happiness than the women of any other region. And when the women of the States have a correct understanding of the exalted social status of the people of Utah, we shall not be surprised to see them flocking to these valleys in great numbers, that they may escape the polluting toils of the debasing state of society which prevails in countries where there is nothing more liberal than monogamy with its horrible shadowing of prostitution, adultery and other crimes, the only seduced.

Certainly, we have been cognizant of very many instances of how the women of Utah "rejoice" in consequence of their "social privileges." You see, they are all so happy in their marriage relations! What bliss, what joy, what "exaltation" a woman must necessarily experience when the husband of her choice, he who first stole her "special affection," takes unto himself another wife! And then when that happiness is increased by his taking a third, a fourth, a fifth—and so on to the end of the chapter! Just try to compute the sum total of the first wife's happiness, even in this world, by a geometrical series, based upon the above idea! The result is startling, especially in those States where thirty, fifty, or a hundred women belong to the same old man! But O won't the women of the States flock here when they understand these things? No, indeed, they are coming in "great numbers" to escape a state of society "where there is nothing more liberal than monogamy," and begging of these Polygamists to admit them into their harems! We see the women of America in that light of course. "Only we do not."

By our dispatches this morning it will be seen that Capt. George F. Price, the popular Adjutant General of the District of Utah, has been appointed a Lieutenant in the 5th U. S. Cavalry.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

(SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION-EDETTE.)

CONGRESSIONAL.

SENATE.

Washington, March 23. In the Senate, Pomroy offered a bill to amend the constitution of the main branch of the Southern Pacific Railroad.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the report of the Judiciary Committee on the protest of the New Jersey Legislature, against admitting John P. Stockton to a seat. The amendment, declaring Stockton not entitled, resulted in yeas 19, nays 21. The closeness of the vote created considerable excitement. The question was then taken up on declaring Stockton legally elected. Before the vote was taken, Stockton stated that Mr. Morrill had agreed to pair off with his colleague, Wright, but had nevertheless voted. Stockton then desired the clerk to call his, Stockton's, name, which was allowed by the chair. The vote was then declared, yeas 22, nays 21.

HOUSE.

In the House, Bingham, of the Committee on Military Affairs, reported a joint resolution, which was passed, providing relief for officers of the volunteers to be mustered into the grade for which they hold commissions, but who could not be mustered, though no fault of theirs. The resolution was amended before it passed, so as to apply to all cases where an officer was killed before the muster.

The Ways and Means Committee reported back the loan bill, with amendments, one of which provides that the Secretary shall not retire more than ten millions within six months, and thereafter not more than four millions in every month.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on this subject, Morrill advocating the bill as amended. The bill was finally reported to the House and passed, yeas 58, nays 53.

The following is the loan bill as it passed the House:

Be it enacted, that the act entitled an act to provide ways and means to support the government, March 2d, 1865, shall be extended and construed to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury, at his discretion, to receive any treasury notes or other obligations issued under any act, whether bearing interest or not, in exchange for any description of bonds authorized by the act to which this is an amendment, and also to dispose of any description of bonds by such act, either in the United States or elsewhere, in such manner and at such rate as he may think best, for money of the United States or for any treasury notes, certificates of indebtedness, certificates of deposit, or other representatives of value, what have been or which may be issued, the proceeds therefore to be used for retiring treasury notes or other obligations issued under any act; but nothing herein contained shall be construed to authorize any increase of the public debt, provided that of United States notes not more than ten millions may be retired and cancelled within six months from the passage of this act, and thereafter not more than four millions in any one month; and provided the bonds which may be disposed of elsewhere than in the United States may be made payable, both principal and interest, in the coin or currency of the country in which they are made payable, but shall not be at a rate of interest exceeding five per cent., and provided further that the act to which this is an amendment shall continue in force in all its provisions, except as modified by this act.

Sec. 2 provides that the Secretary of the Treasury shall report to Congress, at the commencement of the next session, the amount of expenses or money borrowed under this act, and on what terms and the character of the indebtedness retired and detailed on account of the expenses incurred.

The following letter was sent to-day by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Chairman of Ways and Means, dated Treasury Department, March 23d:

SIR:—Your favor of the 22d is received, transmitting the following resolution:

Resolved, That a communication be addressed by this committee to the Secretary of the Treasury, stating that the committee has received, through one of its members, information that the Secretary is of the opinion that he is without further legislation, sufficiently armed with power to carry out the policy announced in his annual report, and to request the Secretary to inform the committee whether such is his opinion.

In reply, I have to say that I must have failed to make it clear to the honorable member, to whom reference is made. I did not say that the Secretary, without legislation, was sufficiently armed with power, etc., but did intend to say that, if it should be found necessary to modify in any way the provisions of the bill reported by the committee, I should prefer that it would not become law. It will be, in my opinion, a national calamity, if Congress should fail to grant additional power to the Secretary, for it will be very difficult, if not impossible, to fund the interest-bearing notes under the present laws, but I don't desire that the committee or myself should become responsible in any way for a law that is likely to fail in that object. I regard it as a matter of the greatest importance that the powers of the Secretary should not be strictly defined. If, for example, the Secretary should be prohibited from selling bonds below par, it would be easy, as the market in the process of funding, must be liberally supplied, for the enemies of the Government to form successful combinations for keeping the bonds at a price as would prevent negotiation of them. On the other hand, if the authority of the Secretary in this respect is not limited, no such combination is likely to be formed. In my opinion, the best way of keeping the bonds at a premium, will be to leave the Secretary unrestrained in their sale.

In regard to other important features of the bill, such as authority to withdraw notes, I have in reply to remark that it is of vast importance to the business of the country, the welfare of the people, and the credit of the nation, that such a financial policy should be adopted this Congress as will prepare the way for specie payment. When this is brought about, will depend on the condition of the national industry. In the relations between the United States and foreign nations, it is desirable that specie payment be restored, and until then, there can be made, by increasing industry, no proper adjustment of our trade with Europe. The tendencies now are all in the right direction, and if they shall be adjusted by judicious legislation, I shall be hopeful that the currency of the country may be brought up to the specie standard without a large reduction of it.

The apprehension that exists that, if power was given to the Secretary to reduce the United States notes, the circulation of the country will be ruinously contracted, is without substantial foundation. If no reliance can be placed upon the discretion and the carelessness of the Secretary, the very condition of the finances of the country will prevent such reductions as will make either a light market or depress business. The authority to reduce the currency will go very far to prevent the necessity for reduction. The battle will be more than half fought, when the Government shall adopt a healthy financial policy.

I am, etc.,
HUGH McCULLOCH.
GENERAL NEWS.

Cincinnati, March 23. Pike's Opera House is entirely in ruins. The Enquirer office is also destroyed. The fire spread across Baker to Adams' Express Stables and several buildings on 3d and 8th. The Express company saved the valuable packages, but everything else was lost. Total loss will reach two millions; Pike's loss being one million, on which he has only a trifling insurance. It is supposed the fire was caused by the explosion of gas.

Chicago, March 23. The Connecticut political campaign attracts considerable interest. Both the rival candidates for Governor—General Hawley, Republican, and James E. English, Democrat, have within a week had interviews with President Johnson, each coming away professing sure of Presidential support, while the President declines any public declaration one way or another.

Mr. English says in a published letter, "I fully and cordially approve the President's restoration policy and the patriotic sentiments and statesmanlike principles so ably set forth in this veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill and reaffirmed in his speech to his fellow citizens on the birth day of Washington."

Gen. Hawley says, in the Hartford Press, which he edited, that the President's veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill is a "two-thirds vote over the veto and has been read with profound regret and address the President's speech on the 22d February."

The National Intelligencer of the 20th says, "We are gratified to learn that the prospects of the election of Mr. English are very encouraging. While he has had several cordial and pleasant interviews with the President, who we have every reason to believe, would be highly pleased to hear of his success on the first Monday in April."

The same paper desires by authority that Secretary Wells has written a letter announcing his desire that Gen. Hawley should be elected, and says the sound and practical view of Mr. Wells is that old issues have passed away with the periods which saw their rise, agitation and fall, and that the great issue of the present day is upon the policy of the President to restore representation in Congress to the States in which rebellion lately existed.

Edward S. Cleveland, Postmaster of Hartford, has declared in favor of the election of English, and several other Connecticut Republicans of lesser note have gone the same way. The fact that Secretary Wells does not take sides is more significant when it is remembered that the Hartford Press was established as his organ twelve years ago, and that the most intimate personal and political relations have always existed between himself and Gen. Hawley.

Chicago, March 24. Among the second Lieutenants appointed in the regular army from the volunteer service are the following:

Lt. Col. Clarence E. Bennett, 1st California Cav., to be 2nd Lieut. 6th United States Cav.; Major Alfred Morison, 7th California volunteers, to be 2nd Lieut. 9th United States Infantry; Major Henry M. Benson, 4th California volunteers to be 2nd Lieut. 16th Infantry; Capt. Geo. Price, 2nd California Cav., to be second Lieut. 5th U. S. Cav.; Capt. Alexander B. McCowan, 6th Cal. vol's, to the 12th Infantry; Capt. James H. Stuart, 2nd Cal. vol's, to the 15th Infantry; 1st Lt. Wm. J. Reed, 6th Cal. vol's, to be 2nd Lieut. 5th U. S. Infantry; private John R. Eschenburg, Co. I, 2nd Cal. vol's, to be 2nd Lieut. 14th Infantry; 1st Lieut. Henry Cately, 1st Oregon vol's, to the 10th Infantry; private Daniel W. Applegate, 1st Oregon vol's, to be 2nd Lieut. 15th Infantry; private Washington John Henderson, 1st Oregon Cav., to be 2nd Lieut. 13th Infantry; Capt. Wm. M. Knox, 1st Washington Territory volunteers, to be 2nd Lieut. 18th United States Infantry.

Henry S. Foot publishes his card to deny any authorship of Senator Stewart's resolution. He says, "I warmly approve it, and was consulted by the author, in regard to the probability of the South's accepting it. Mr. Foote promises a forthcoming letter in support of the resolution."

Forney writes to the Philadelphia Press, saying: "Make note of it, that with all the clamor against what are called the Radicals, who are falsely charged with delaying the reconstruction of the Union, and with contributing to languor and uncertainty in business circles, more of the great monetary interests have yet demonstrated in favor of the rehabilitation of the Rebel States, or the admission of their Senators and Representatives on the Johnson policy. We have no delegations from Wall Street, State Street or 3d Street, supporting this demand. We hear nothing from the manufacturing and agricultural magazines of the West or Northwest in the same direction. Why? Simply because, like the millions who have invested in national securities, they cannot see what safety would come to enterprise, industry, capital and finance generally by introducing elements into the national councils, who, without restraint there, or without responsibility at home, would have no interest whatever, except in securing the payment of the rebel debt, and in resisting taxation for the payment of the interest and principal of the national debt. Now we are in the very front of exactly this peril."

The House bill passed yesterday, appropriating $700,000 to reimburse Pennsylvania for State troops employed in 1863 to repel Lee's invasion.

The House Judiciary Committee have agreed to report a Constitutional amendment prohibiting any person who has ever held office under the so-called Confederate Government from holding office under this Government.

New York, March 24.

Last evening, the residence of John P. Moore, 110 Madison Avenue, was robbed of $100,000. The robbery was the first of the kind in the United States since the late war. A reward of five thousand dollars is offered.

Nothing further has been divulged about the late robbery of a million and a half from Mr. Lord's office, but mysterious advertisements lead to the belief that negotiations have been opened with the successful thief.

E. S. Cleveland, Postmaster, at Hartford, Connecticut, has tendered his resignation, which the President has refused to accept.

In pursuance of General instructions from headquarters, army officers in command of military departments are establishing quarantines at different Southern ports, and suitable vessels for guard ships are being stationed along the coast, as security against the introduction of the cholera.

Washington, March 24.

The House in the Committee of the Whole for general debate, the attendance slim, proceedings not very important.

The President's veto on the civil rights bill, will probably be sent to the Senate on Monday, and it is anticipated with much interest, in various speculations about, regarding the probable tone of the message, and while nothing to any certainty is known it seems to be believed that the President will reiterate his argument in the freedmen's veto against the legislation for the South while himself unrepresented, and will avail himself on this occasion further to define his policy.

The President, yesterday, expressed his disapproval of Senator Stewart's proposition for universal amnesty, on condition that States granting universal suffrage.

Correction.—In preparing the loan bill to be telegraphed last night, a printed copy used containing the clause which had been struck out, the following should have been omitted: "And provided that the bonds which may be disposed of elsewhere than in the United States, may be made payable, both principal and interest, with coin or currency of the country in which it is made payable, but shall not bear rate of interest exceeding five per cent." The above clause not in the bill as passed.

In the United States District Court, yesterday, Judge Betts pronounced an elaborate judgment, in which he declared the application of the owners of steamship Meteor for boarding that vessel, should be refused on the ground of obligation to enforce neutrality. It will be remembered that the Meteor was seized by order of the Government, on information that she was intended to be used as a Chilean privateer, pending a final decision the owners wanted to give bonds for the value of the vessel and release her from further detention.

New York, March 24.

The Commercial Advertiser says, the passage of the loan bill by the House has produced a slight lull in the market. The adoption of the clause authorizing a foreign loan, took Wall Street by surprise, and the bill is regarded as granting the Secretary all the power he wanted. The action of the House would produce more marked effect were it certain that the bill would pass the Senate in its present form. There is a doubt whether the Senate will not insist upon the curtailment of the Secretary's power.

HELENA, M. T., March 5, 66.

"Copy." Thus shouts the printer's imp, and the cry is answered by his black forked tailed ancestor, who pours into the lap of "Yours" a quantity of item material which he has been manufacturing during the past week in Helena and its vicinity.

A shooting affray on Saturday night last, at Maher's Billiard Saloon, on Main street, George Perkins and Jimmy Garrow, two men who are supposed to get their living by fencing the "pasteboards," had a little difference of opinion as to the expediency of taking the scalp of a noble (?) red man that made his appearance in the streets. The subject of their dispute was unharmed; but, being on a bit of a spree, the differing gentlemen started for a fight on general principles. Shooting commenced in front of the saloon, into which Garrow fled, firing at Perkins as he retreated, and being fired at in turn, by the latter, from his position at the door. Garrow was slightly wounded in the fleshy part of the arm above the elbow; but miraculously as it may seem, none of the half hundred bystanders were injured by the six shots that were fired. The non-combatants regarded the matter in the light of a "big thing," and "tender feet" joined the river men in a rushing exodus. Not many minutes elapsed before the parties who had so recklessly imperilled the lives of their fellow-citizens, were arrested by the United States Marshal, and the affair will be thoroughly investigated by the proper authorities.

James Daniels arrived here from Virginia City on the afternoon of March 21. He seemed in fine spirits, but had not been long in town before he began to have some misgivings as to his personal safety. Deputy U. S. Marshal Fetherston had been very kind to him during his trial, and while with him during a portion of the afternoon, he felt more at ease. Marshal Fetherston did not, however, choose to take the responsibility of re-arresting the man, and considered him as no more in his charge than in that of the attorney upon whom Daniels called. In the evening, Daniels made his bed at the store of one of his friends. He never occupied it. The long sleep was the only rest he enjoyed. At 10 o'clock of the store of his friend, he was lying there 11 o'clock, that night his body dangled from that same limb of Hangman's Tree, and he had previously borne half a dozen specimens of evil fruit. The succeeding day his body was taken down the Governor's pardon (?)—How solemnly vetoed!—taken from his pocket and the unfortunate criminal buried. It was hoped that such scenes as this were over—hoped that civil law would be fully able to punish all crime—hoped that no extraordinary measures on the part of the people would be demanded. That court has done its whole duty, no one denies. Upon whom, then, rests the responsibility of a return to the rule of the Vigilantes? Pardon criminals had best go anywhere but to Last Chance the name is ominous.

On the afternoon of March 1st, an engagement took place between a band of Blood warriors and a party of whites at the San River Bridge, one of the whites, James Malone, being badly wounded in the right side. One Indian was killed in the fight and three others that were captured were immediately hanged. The Blackfeet, Bloods and Piegans are reported, by reliable parties that arrived in Helena yesterday, to be nearly all in open hostility to the whites. Of four men, who left Fort Union some time ago with an express for Fort Benton, only one has been heard from. He is reported to have been found with his back pierced with arrows, and it is supposed that his three companions were also killed by the red devils. Horse stealing is extensively carried on, over twenty head having been recently stolen at San River alone. The prospectors and ranchmen at San River are fortifying, and will act purely on the defensive, until their numbers are increased. They do not feel strong enough to meet the charges in the open field, but will hold their present position at all hazards. Expresses have been sent to all small parties of whites east of the Prickly Pear Divide, requesting them to rally for defense at Fort Benton and San River.

While upon the Indian subject, it may be remarked that some three hundred lodges of Flat Heads and Pen d'Oreilles, are located not far from this place. The ladies of the camp do not much indulge in city promiscuity, but the gentlemen, with their slovenly hair, take frequent airings on our streets, seeming to have a particular fancy for sunny corners, slaughter house trips and the boys—smiling benignly, and very knowingly withal, upon the latter, as they show them silver quarters, tug at their bows and persuasively put the question—"Swap!"

A revival in burly gurdyism is in progress, four ladies from Germany acting as priestesses and the old California Exchange serving as a temple. Spiritual consolation alternates with the mystic finger-pointing rites, even as in the days of last Summer, when ye honest miners had plenty of cash for contributions.

U. S. Court this day. E. W. Carpenter has been appointed clerk in place of T. C. Jones, who resigned in order that he might devote his whole time to the correct interpretation and translation of all literature in any way connected with "Le Delice du Collecteur," and to the final disposal of the same.

Judge Munson and U. S. Attorney Strickland arrived yesterday. The Judge is the recipient of almost universal compliment for the many stand he has taken, both as regards the Deane release case and the enforcement of the laws of the so-called Legislature now in session.

Morning Star Lodge, A. F. & A. M., working under a dispensation from the Grand Lodge of Montana, organized February 29th, with twenty-eight members. John Potter, W. M.; Wm. Clarke, S. W.; Hugh McFee, J. W.; E. W. Carpenter, Sec.

It was expected that there would have been an indignation meeting yesterday afternoon, to denounce the hanging of Daniels as murder, an outrage, high handed villainy, etc., but only the Indians made their appearance in any essential force, and one might as well look for indignation in a copper kettle as in their emotionless faces.

Miss McGinley's dancing was highly applauded, and considering the wretched music with which she was furnished, it was very good.
